

Timetable changes after half term

After February half term we are making changes to the timetable. This is predominately in French and Technology so that students are taught Wood Tech and Food in an academic year, as well as having the experience of two different French teachers. The table below summarises the changes.

On top of these changes, Miss Bull is going on Maternity leave in March. In order to help a smooth transition to new teachers, Miss Bull's classes will start with their new teachers after half term, with Miss Bull supporting. This does have an impact on other timetables, which are outlined below.

We have been talking the students through the changes this week and, where we think it appropriate, issue students with individual timetables. Satchel One will show students' updated timetables after the first weekend of half term.

There are some changes to the timings of other classes, but these are minor and tutors have talked through these changes. Their timetables will also be updated on Satchel One after the first weekend of half term.
